“God's Laws of Communication” is a study in the elemental physiology of worship focusing on the cause and effect of today's AVL and acoustics in the master planning of a total worship environment. The underlying goal is to create an environment that will promote engaging and high impact worship experiences for today's congregations by understanding the base-line methodology of full sensory media design. Discovering the organic make-up of how people see, hear and experience worship today, teaching how to use “next generation technology” to deliver the message and Word of God in way that is both dynamic and life changing and understanding the basic building blocks of worship communication that will impact 21st century congregations.
