Raised among the social snobbery of Houston's elite inner circle, Tiffany LeBlanc gladly leaves it behind for the joi de vivre lifestyle of southwest Louisiana. A cheating fiancé and controlling parents have the successful surgeon feeling anything but optimistic. She accepts her life as is until a handsome businessman with ulterior motives has her wondering—has she grown too accustomed to settling for less? Scott `Red' McAllister comes from a large, boisterous, hard-working Scottish-Cajun family in a tiny Louisiana farming community. A highly respected businessman, Red owns one successful club in Lafayette, with his second under construction in Lake Coburn. Red's confirmed bachelor status had already taken a hard hit upon meeting the good doctor a few months earlier. Determined to steal Tiffany away from her unappreciative fiancé, Red becomes a permanent wrinkle in the plans of his old college nemesis, Dr. Tanner Collins. As he strives for a relationship with Dr. LeBlanc, the tide turns ominously for Red. An ominous phone call promising disaster leads to others, each more baffling to the businessman. A tragic fire is only the beginning of someone's plans to make his life a living hell, and keeps him wondering why anyone would want him ruined. The one thing he's sure of is that he can't be sure of anything—not even a promising new relationship with "Doc". As happens in a family as large as Red's, it's natural to have at least one sibling's drama overflow into his life. Enter little sister, Annie. Welcome to the clan McAllister.
