When things come to a head, there's nowhere to go but down...

The Bristol Collection, Book 3

On the surface, Derek "Call Me Dare" Nelson's life is simple, doing up custom campervans while living in a slightly illegal caravan in his riverfront yard. When a handsome, smooth-talking developer offers to buy the land out from under his feet, Dare realizes it's the same man he had to escort home from a party months ago for causing a drunken scene.

Grant Matravers lives a double life, attempting to adjust to weekends as a single, divorced gay man while staying closeted at work. The strain of keeping up the part-time pretense, missing his kids, and now a problematic attraction to the shave-headed, tattooed Dare, has worn his emotional barriers dangerously thin.

Dare blasts through those barriers in a way Grant isn't prepared for, challenging everything he thought he knew about himself as a gay man. But as their chemistry heats up and the intimacy between them grows, Grant edges toward a decision that could blow up in his face. Exposing a hornet's nest of complications that could destroy any chance for happily ever after.

Warning: Contains a man desperately in need of redemption, another with a chip on his shoulder the size of an oak tree, frothing in camper vans, a sensual head-shaving scene and several guest appearances from Mas.
